The Canaanite woman: Christianity becoming Catholic

With the Magi who visit the baby Jesus and the Roman Centurion, this brave woman points us to the spread of the gospel to the non-Jewish nations. For her recognition of Jesus does more than bring the healing of her daughter; it marks something essential about our faith: believing in Jesus has a unique power to draw all human beings together.

Already less than 100 years after Jesus, Christians were described as 'Catholics' or universal. But one of the truly remarkable signs of our times is how our 21st century Catholic churches have worshippers from all over the world.

And did you know that of the thirteen parish groups in our Dorset deanery, three now are cared for by African priests and three by Indian priests?

David Little RIP

David's funeral Mass will be in St. Joseph's church at 10am on Thursday 7th September.
